

New Campus Construction

The time has finally arrived! After a couple of years of permits and paperwork, we can actually see the footprint of what will be the new NSA campus! Hopefully, depending on how well the rainy season treats us, we will be moving in by early 2012. We are very excited about this opportunity to enjoy a space that is specially-designed for NSA student and staff needs.

Here is what to expect:

- ◆ Campus location: The campus is 6-7 acres of beautiful farmland about 1km from the center of town. There are old mango trees as well as a variety of younger fruit trees (papaya, oranges, water apples, etc.) that our students have been planting over the past 3 years.
- ◆ Administrative Building: There will be an upgraded kitchen, large open-air dining area, several offices and meeting spaces, a medical office, and Aventura equipment storeroom. There will also be a second floor deck for student meetings and wrap up groups.
- ◆ Classroom Building: Four classrooms will envelop a large open-air classroom in the middle of the building.
- ◆ Student Dorms: We are building 8 dorms for up to 4 students each. Every pair of dorms will share a college-suite style utility area, including multiple toilet stalls, showers, sinks, and a washer/dryer set as well as a mud room sink and “airing out” area for shoes, Aventura gear, and gym clothes. :)
- ◆ Student Club House: The existing farm house will be remodeled into a club house with therapist offices, phone call areas, an electronics storage room, a student kitchen, TV/media area, computer lab, and a large roofed terrace for the pool table, ping pong table, and other games.
- ◆ Neighborhood: Our new neighborhood hosts a soccer field (2 blocks away), a local elementary school (1 block away), local residences, farms, and a local orphanage. We are close to the center of town (about 1 km) while also keeping our “country feel” to the campus.

These pictures are about a week old, so I can't wait to head over this week and see what else has gone up over our rain-less week. :) Thanks for all of your support, and thanks for sharing this long-awaited joy with us!
